

Safe Space to Talk

Kibble is offering a confidential, therapeutic support line for all residential care workers who may need some space to talk during the COVID-19 crisis.

One-to-one telephone calls or Skype sessions will be led by trained therapists from Kibble's specialist team to those providing vital services within the community.

How to Access The Service

If you are interested in accessing this service, please email safespace@kibble.org

A member of the team will contact you directly to arrange a suitable time to call you. Sessions will be offered on a first-come, first-served basis and will be treated as a confidential space.
